OUR STORY

Five Farms was developed by the Holladay Distillery in collaboration with its partners in Ireland and is imported into the U.S. under its Holladay Distillery label. Founded in 1856 in Weston, Missouri, the Holladay Distillery is the oldest distillery in the state of Missouri and the oldest business in the Kansas City area.

Five Farms was introduced first in the state of Missouri in November 2017 and rolled out to other U.S. markets throughout the following year. It launched to immediate acclaim, earning awards and accolades and becoming the darling of Irish festivals throughout the country. The brand is a game-changer in a category that had seen little innovation since the first commercial Irish cream liqueur was introduced in the 1970s.
